COMMENTS:

This bill would make various modifications to the functions, duties, and responsibilities of the State Bar of California, including statutorily setting state bar membership fees. To the extent this bill may result in a change in the amount paid by the department for state bar membership dues, the bill would affect the department's annual budget. Otherwise, this bill would not impact the department's current programs or state's income tax revenue.

The June 17, 1998, amendment removed the bill's prior provisions, including the technical changes to the Revenue and Taxation Code, which would have abolished the mandatory State Bar of California and would have transferred to the California Supreme Court and the Administrative Office of the Courts all powers, duties, and functions relating to admission to the practice of law, attorney discipline, mandatory continuing legal education, and the Client Security Fund currently vested in the State Bar Board of Governors.
